Excellence Through Training

Fire and Rescue Training

On-duty crews completed live burn training on November 12, 13, and 14 at the Warren County Career Center. Over 40 pallets and more than 20 bales of straw were used to set 28 individual fires for each training scenario. Live fire training is essential for firefighters because it exposes them to real heat and smoke conditions that cannot be replicated in simulations. It helps our firefighters to make decisions under stress, and safely practice critical skills such as hose advancement, extinguishment, search and rescue, ventilation, and overhaul techniques. Overall, live fire training builds confidence, improves firefighter performance, and dramatically enhances safety during actual emergencies.
